APPLICATION PROCESS

Students do not apply for specific competitive scholarships. Applications are categorized by staff based on a student's field of study. Applications packets are then reviewed by an independent committee, and scored in the following areas: personal essay (40 points possible), grade point average (40 points possible), letters of recommendation (30 points possible) and personal impression (10 points possible) for a total of 120 possible points.

COMPETITIVE SCHOLARSHIP REVIEW COMMITTEE

Selection Process:

The competitive scholarship review committee is an independent group consisting of five members who each hold three-year terms. One committee member must reside in a rural village within the Doyon region. To qualify for a position, candidates must be a Doyon, Limited shareholder over 18 years of age. Also, per IRS regulations, committee members cannot be employees of the Doyon Family of Companies or the Doyon Foundation.

When a seat is open, Doyon Foundation sends out a public notice, via the Doyon newsletter, Doyon Foundation e-newsletter and various Native organizations to solicit members.

Interested parties are asked to submit a resume and letter of interest stating why they are interested in serving on the committee. These members are then selected by the Doyon Foundation board of directors at a regularly scheduled quarterly meeting. An orientation for committee members is held in May or June to review expectations and the scoring process.

Current Duties:

The duties of serving on the scholarship review committee include:

- Evaluating and scoring all competitive scholarship applications.
- Awarding scholarships based on scores, fields of study and class standings.
- Making scholarship policy recommendations to the Doyon Foundation board of directors via the executive director and scholarship review committee.
- Dedication of 30 — 40 hours of time to review competitive applications, with no monetary compensation.
- Serving on a volunteer basis and committing to a three-year term.

The committee reviews the application packets on a secure Web site from late May to late June. They then meet in mid-July in Fairbanks to determine the recipients. Competitive scholarship applicants are notified in late July as to whether or not they received a competitive scholarship. Recipients are notified by phone. Those who did not receive a competitive scholarship are notified by mail.

APPLICATION SELECTION PROCESS

After the April 15 competitive application deadline:

- Staff sort applications by status (i.e. vocational/undergraduate/graduate) and field of study (i.e. liberal arts, business, etc.).
- Application packet materials are scanned and uploaded to an online, secure web site.
- The scholarship committee begins reviewing application packets online in late May. This process takes an estimated 30 — 40 hours per member.

APPLICATION SELECTION PROCESS, continued

- The application is scored in the following areas, for a total of 120 possible points:
 - Personal essay (40 points possible)
 - Grade point average (40 points possible)
 - Letters of recommendation (30 points possible)
 - Personal impression (10 points possible).

Note: Ratings by committee members are subjective.
- Once applications are scored by individual members, the committee meets as a team in mid-July for a final review and selection.
- Once recipients are selected, an award letter is sent by the executive director to students. Recipients also receive a phone call notifying them of their selection.
- Scholarship awards are sent directly to the recipient's academic facility financial aid office. Each recipient is awarded half of the competitive scholarship amount for the fall semester and the remaining half for the following spring.
- Applicant scores and comments from the committee are entered into the students' web account and will be included in the award letter.
- Applicants who are not chosen for a competitive scholarship award are notified by mail. If eligible, they automatically receive a basic, full-time scholarship for the fall semester.

Basic and competitive scholarship recipients are recognized in early August at the annual Doyon Foundation scholarship awards ceremony.

DOYON FOUNDATION COMPETITIVE SCHOLARSHIPS

The number and amount of Doyon Foundation competitive scholarships vary annually, based upon the projected needs of future students. Each year, Foundation staff reviews current students' fields of study and make recommendations for competitive scholarships for the upcoming year. The annual competitive scholarship awards are then approved by the Doyon Foundation board of directors.

These competitive scholarships are made possible by the generosity of many individual and corporate donors. To view a list of current donors, or to make a donation, please visit www.doyonfoundation.com.
